

Sandra Dunsmuir

Professor of Educational and Child Psychology and Director, UCL Educational Psychology Group, University College London, UK

Sandra Dunsmuir, PhD, is Professor of Educational and Child Psychology at UCL and Director of the Educational Psychology Group. Her academic research and publications focus on early literacy development, child and adolescent mental health, consultation and cross-professional collaborative working. Sandra has led national projects to develop learning resources for professional training programmes in educational psychology.

Sandra is a Fellow of both the UK Higher Education Academy (FHEA) and the British Psychological Society (BPS) and is past Chair of the BPS Division of Educational and Child Psychology (DECP).